

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to tissue engineered compositions and methods comprising nanotopographic surface topography ("nanotopography") for use in modulating the organization and/or function of multiple cell types.